

Journal of Philosophical Investigations

Print ISSN: 2251-7960 Online ISSN: 2423-4419

Homepage: https://philosophy.tabrizu.ac.ir

Note on Contributors

Oseni Afisi
Email: oseni.afisi@gmail.com

Dr. Oseni Taiwo Afisi is an Associate Professor of Philosophy at the Department of Philosophy, Lagos State University, Ojo, Lagos, Nigeria. He was Head of the Department of Philosophy, Lagos State University (2019-2021). He is the current Director of Special Interventions at the Vice-Chancellor's Office, Lagos State University. He had his Bachelor's and Master's degrees in Philosophy from the University of Lagos, Akoka, Lagos, Nigeria. He later proceeded to the University of Canterbury, New Zealand, where he obtained a PhD degree in Philosophy. He was a visiting academic to the Australian National University, Canberra, ACT, Australia, in 2011. His primary research interest is in Karl Popper's Critical Rationalism. He has contextualised this interest to various areas in Philosophy, such as in Philosophy of Science, Political Philosophy, Philosophy of Religion and African Philosophy. He got a grant from the Karl Popper Charitable Trust, United Kingdom, in 2018 and another grant from UNESCO Abuja office in 2019 to organise the Karl Popper for Africa International Conference (28-31 March 2019) and the UNESCO (MOST) Syndicated Workshop (29-30 March 2019) respectively. He has attended several conferences and has published widely in highly revered journals. He is the founder of Karl Popper Critical Dialogue Group, Lagos; a Professional member of the Philosophers Association of Nigeria; and a member of the Theatre 15 Alumni group, University of Lagos.

Georgios Archontas
Email: Georgios.archontas@kefim.org

Georgios Archontas is an adjunct Professor at the European Communication Institute and Head of Educational Programs at the Center for Liberal Studies in Athens. His doctoral thesis focused on Friedrich Hayek's contributions to assessing institutional arrangements. He has taught Institutional Theory, Global Economics, and Modern Public Sphere Issues at the University of Peloponnese and the University of Athens. He co-founded the Open Society Club, an initiative led by Greek academics and active citizens who support the principles of liberal democracy, liberalism, the rule of law, human rights, and civil society. Additionally, he co-founded LearnLiberty.gr, an educational website dedicated to classical liberalism principles. He oversees the Greek Economic Experts' Panel, an influential monthly survey on economic theory and policy. Furthermore, he has more than 20 years of experience as a political consultant and speechwriter for prominent Greek politicians.

Note on Contributors VII

William Berkson
Email: wberkson@icloud.com

William Berkson did his Bachelor's degree at the University of Illinois, Champaign, his hometown. He completed his PhD in philosophy at the LSE, under Karl Popper. He then taught college, and then was long Director of the Jewish Institute for Youth and Family, where he published texts on Jewish values. He is also author of three books, one on Popper, and is now retired.

Alain Boyer
Email: m_mboyeralain@orange.fr

Alain Boyer Is an emeritus Professor of Moral and Political Philosophy, Sorbonne Université. He was born in 1954. Studied at Ecole Normale Superieure (Ulm), where he obtained his Docteur in Philosophy in 1983. In 1998 he joined the Department of Philosophy at Sorbonne Université and continued his research and teaching activities there until 1921. His publications include: Introduction à la lecture de Karl Popper, presses de la rue d'Ulm, 1994; Hors du Temps. Un Essai sur Kant, Vrin, 2001; Chose Promise. Etude sur la promesse, à partir de Hobbes, Puf, 2014; Apologie de John Rawls, Puf, 2018.

Note on Contributors IX

Adam ChmielewskiEmail: Adam Chmielewski adam.chmielewski@uwr.edu.pl

Adam Chmielewski is a professor at the Institute of Philosophy, University of Wrocław, Poland. He studied philosophy at the universities in Wrocław, Oxford, New York, and Edinburgh. He is the editor-in-chief of Studia Philosophica Wratislaviensia and the author of the successful bid for the city of Wrocław for the title of European Capital of Culture 2016. His latest publications include the book Politics and Recognition: Towards a New Political Aesthetics (Routledge, 2020), and the paper "Critical Rationalism and Trust in Science" (Science and Education, 2022).

Manjari Chakrabarty
Email: manchakrabarty@gmail.com; manjari.chakraborty@visva-bharati.ac.in Manjari Chakrabarty is Associate Professor in Philosophy at Visva Bharati (Central University), Santiniketan, India. Her current research interests focus on the general philosophy of science (conceptual and methodological issues), Karl Popper's work (in the fields of epistemology, philosophy of science, and metaphysics), philosophy of technology (mainly, prehistoric stone-tool technology, human-artefact relations and technological knowledge) and philosophy of mind (philosophical theories of mind and consciousness). Her recent research articles include "Karl Popper on the Evolution of Consciousness" in Z. Parusnikova & D. Merritt (eds) Karl Popper's Science and Philosophy (Springer 2021), "Prehistoric Stone Tools and their Epistemic Complexity" in Z. Pirtle, D. Tomblin & G. Madhavan (eds) Engineering and Philosophy (Philosophy of Engineering and Technology Series, Volume 37, Springer 2021), "How Stone Tools Shaped Us: Post-Phenomenology and Material Engagement Theory" in Philosophy and Technology (2018), "A Philosophical Study of Human-Artefact Interaction" in AI & Society: Journal of Knowledge, Culture and Communication (2017), "A Philosophical Inquiry into the Character of Material Artifacts", Philosophia Scientiae (2014).

Note on Contributors XI

Carlos-Emilio García-Duque
Email: carlos.garcia_d@ucaldas.edu.co

Carlos-Emilio García-Duque, B. A. Philosophy and Letters (Universidad de Caldas); M. A. Philosophy (Universidad Nacional de Colombia); M. A. Education (University of Iowa); Doctor of Philosophy (University of Florida). Currently, he is Professor of Epistemology at the Universidad de Manizales (Colombia) and Professor of Philosophy at the Department of Philosophy, Universidad de Caldas (Colombia). He published Popper's Theory of Science. An Apologia (London: Continuum, 2006) and has authored several books and papers that have appeared in professional journals. His areas of research include Epistemology, Philosophy of Science and Education.

Donald Gillies
Email: donald.gillies@ucl.ac.uk

Donald Gillies studied mathematics and philosophy at Cambridge as an undergraduate. In 1966, he began graduate studies in Professor Sir Karl Popper's department at the London School of Economics, and he completed his PhD on the Foundations of Probability in 1970 with Professor Imre Lakatos as supervisor.

From 1968 to 1971, he was a Fellow of King's College, Cambridge. In 1971 he joined the Department of History and Philosophy of Science at Chelsea College, University of London. As a result of various mergers, he became a member of the Philosophy Department at King's College London in 1992. In 1994 he was appointed Professor of Philosophy of Science and Mathematics. In 2004 he transferred to the Department of Science and Technology Studies at University College London. He retired in 2009 and is currently an Emeritus Professor at UCL.

His main research areas have been philosophy of science, particularly the foundations of probability, and philosophy of logic and mathematics. From the mid-1980s, he began researching into the interactions between artificial intelligence and various branches of philosophy, including logic, scientific method, probability and causality. In 2000 he became interested in how philosophy of science applies to medicine and has worked in this field for two decades. Three of his books are Artificial Intelligence and Scientific Method, Oxford, 1996, Philosophical Theories of Probability, Routledge, 2000, and Causality, Probability, and Medicine, Routledge, 2019. He has also edited and contributed to a collection on Revolutions in Mathematics, Oxford, 1992.

Note on Contributors XIII

Héctor-Fernando Giraldo-Bedoya Email: hectorfgiraldo@gmail.com

Héctor-Fernando Giraldo-Bedoya, B. A. Philosophy and Letters (Universidad de Caldas, M. A. Philosophy. He obtained his PhD in Education at the Universidad de Caldas (Colombia). He has taught epistemology, logic, ethics and academic writing at different universities in Colombia and has published several academic papers in professional journals. Currently he is teaching Philosophy at the Instituto Universitario de Caldas.

Thomas Hainscho

Email: thomas.hainscho@aau.at

Thomas Hainscho is in charge of the Karl Popper Copyright Office, responsible for the Karl Popper Archives, and is a lecturer in philosophy at the University of Klagenfurt, Austria. He studied philosophy and informatics in Klagenfurt/Celovec and wrote his dissertation in philosophy on machine models of the human body in early modern philosophy. His research interests are the history of (early modern) philosophy, philosophy of language and philosophy of science. Affiliation: Karl Popper Archives, University of Klagenfurt, Austria.

Note on Contributors XV

Jagdish Hattiangadi Email: jagdish@yorku.ca

Jagdish Hattiangadi (1942 -) is a Professor of Philosophy at York University in Toronto, Canada, where he has taught since 1970. He gained his PhD at Princeton University (1970), his M. A. (Phil) at the London School of Economics (1965) and before that his B. A. (1962) at the University of Bombay (now Mumbai) in India. He matriculated from St. Xavier's High School (1958), Fort, Mumbai, India.

Ian Jarvie †

For a short account of the late Professor Jarvie's life and work, please refer to the obituary written for him, exclusively for this special issue, by Professor Jeremy Shearmur.

Note on Contributors XVII

Makoto Kogawara
Email: kogawara19@gmail.com

Makoto Kogawara is an Emeritus Professor at Kagoshima University and Kitasato University, Japan. He was born in 1947. Majored in Popperian philosophy and, for a long time, studied the Popperian philosophy and engaged in translating many books of critical rationalists (Popper, Miller, and Bartley) into Japanese. His most recent work in this field is a Japanese translation The Open Society and its Enemies. His publications (in Japanese) include An Adventure of Argumentative Reason (Miraisha, 1993), Popper: Critical Rationalism (Kodannsha, 1997), and Falsificationism (Tohokudaigakushuppannkai, 2010).

Alireza Mansouri E-mail: mansouri@ihcs.ac.ir.

Alireza Mansouri (born in 1975, Iran) is Associate Professor in Philosophy of Science and Technology at the Institute for Humanities and Cultural Studies (IHCS) in Tehran, Iran. His BSc. is in electrical engineering at Shiraz University (1997), his MA. is in philosophy of science at Sharif University of technology (1999), and his PhD in the philosophy of science and technology at IHCS (2012). His PhD dissertation is: Philosophical Foundations of Measurement Problem in Quantum Mechanics. Currently, he serves as the Chair of philosophy of science and technology Dept. at IHCS. His research interests include philosophy of science, philosophy of physics, philosophy of technology, critical rationalism. His publications can be found in his Philopapers profile.

Note on Contributors XIX

Yoji Matsuo Email: ymatsuo@shudo-u.ac.jp

Yoji Matsuo is Professor of Hiroshima Shudo University, Japan. He is member, the Japan Popper Society. He was born in 1976. His primary research interest is in the later Popper's philosophy and its application as a methodology in the social sciences. His publications include "Theoretical Social Sciences in the Later Popper: Based on Simkin's View" (2018, in Japanese, and "Popper's Methodological Individualism and the Situational Analysis" (co-author, forthcoming).

David MillerEmail: dwmiller57@yahoo.com

For almost forty years, David Miller taught logic, and some other things, at the University of Warwick. He has been a visiting professor at universities and research institutes in Argentina, Brazil, Colombia, Hungary, India, Italy, Mexico, Thailand, and the USA, and has lectured in many other countries. His publications include Popper Selections (Princeton 1983; translated into 12 languages), of which he was the editor; Critical Rationalism: A Restatement & Defence (Open Court 1994); Out of Error (Ashgate 2006; paperback edition, Routledge 2017); and Karl Popper: A Centenary Assessment (Ashgate 2006; paperback edition, College Publications 2016), which he edited in collaboration with Ian Jarvie and Karl Milford.

Note on Contributors XXI

Ali Paya
Email: apaya@islamic-college.ac.uk; alipaya@hotmail.com

Ali Paya is Professor of Philosophy at the Islamic College (London), and Adjunct Professor of Philosophy at the Department of Ethics of Science and Technology, National Research Institute for Science Policy in Iran. His latest publications include Methods, Methodologies and Perspectives in the Humanities and Social Sciences (With Particular Reference to Islamic Studies): A Critical Rationalist Perspective (ICAS Press, 2022), Ethics, Epistemology, and Religion: Further Themes from a Critical Rationalist Reading of Islam (Routledge, 2023, forthcoming), The Quran vs. The Theory of the Evolution: A Critical Assessment of the Contrasting Views of Two Prominent Iranian Scholars of the 20thc: Ayatollah Seyyed Mohammad Hossein Tabatabaee & Dr Yadollah Sahabi (Routledge, 2023, forthcoming).

Raphael Sassower
Email: rsassowe@uccs.edu

Raphael (Raphi) Sassower is Professor of Philosophy at the University of Colorado, Colorado Springs and the Council Chair of the CU President's Teaching Scholars Program. His interests traverse disciplinary boundaries from postmodern technoscience and critical rationalism to political economy and neo-Marxism. He is currently working on a book that examines Capitalism, Slavery, and the Logic of Dividuation. Among his two dozen books are The Specter of Hypocrisy (2020), The Impact of Critical Rationalism (2018, co-edited with Nathaniel Laor), The Quest for Prosperity (2017), Democratic Problem-Solving (2017, co-authored with Justin Cruickshank), Compromising the Ideals of Science (2015), and The Price of Public Intellectuals (2014). He is the founding president of the AAUP Chapter at UCCS (2016). For more details, see: https://philosophy.uccs.edu/staff/sassower

Note on Contributors XXIII

Jeremy Shearmur Email: jeremy.shearmur@anu.edu.au

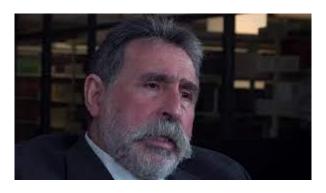

Jeremy Shearmur was educated at the London School of Economics (University of London), where he also worked as full-time assistant to Karl Popper for eight years. He subsequently taught philosophy at the University of Edinburgh, and Political Theory at the University of Manchester. After a year as Director of Studies at the Centre for Policy Studies in London, he worked as Research Associate Professor at the Institute for Humane Studies, George Mason University in Northern Virginia. He then moved to the Australian National University, where he taught Political Theory and subsequently Philosophy. He is the author of The Political Thought of Karl Popper, and was co-editor of both Popper's After the Open Society and The Cambridge Companion to Popper, and has published over 100 articles on philosophy, political theory and the history of economic thought. He is currently retired and living in Scotland, but is still actively engaged in academic work, including the delivery of lectures on Popper's work on the internet, and hosting two conferences a year dedicated to the critical examination of Popper's work.

Email: emadtayebi@yahoo.com.

Emad Tayebi (born in 1989, Iran) has completed his PhD in Philosophy of Science and Technology from the Institute for Humanities and Cultural Studies (IHCS) in Tehran, Iran (2023). He has two B.S. in Nuclear physics and Philosophy. Currently, he is a guest researcher at Eindhoven University, working on the philosophy of artifacts. His research project aims to apply critical rationalism doctrines to philosophy of technology. He is interested in the methodology of improving technology, the ontology of social artifacts, and designing educational systems.

Note on Contributors XXV

Amborsio Velasco Gómez Email: ambrosio@unam.mx

Ambrosio Velasco Gómez is full Professor of Philosophy of Science, and Mexican Philosophy at the National Autonomous University of México (UNAM). He received his PhD from the University of Minnesota. His published works include books and articles on philosophy of social science, philosophy and history of political theory, multiculturalism, hermeneutics and Iberoamerican philosophy. His most recent book is El devenir de la filosofía Mexicana a través de sus tradiciones y controversias (UNAM, 2022)

Carlos Verdugo-Serna
Email: cverdugoserna@gmail.com

Carlos Verdugo-Serna is Emeritus Professor of Philosophy at the Universidad de Valparaíso, Chile. His research interests lie in the philosophy of science, in the philosophy of technology and in the philosophy of Karl Popper. Some of his publications are "Selección de escrito socio-políticos de Karl Popper", Estudios Publicos (1989), 'Popper's Thesis of the Unity of Scientific Method: Method Versus Techniques" in Zuzana Parusnikova &R.S. Cohen (eds), Rethinking Popper, Springer (2009). He was also the main editor of "El legado de Karl Popper (1902-1994): Reflexiones a 20 años de su muerte" (2015). His most recent paper is "Ethics and the Search for Scientific Knowledge: The Whole Truth and Nothing but the Truth? "In Thinking through Science and Technology, edited by Glen Miller, Helena Mateus Jerónimo, and Qin Zhu, Rowman & Littlefield (2023).

Note on Contributors XXVII

Shuja Zaidi

Email: shujazaidi75@hotmail.com

Shuja Zaidi graduated from Kings College London in various science and healthcare related fields. He currently works in healthcare and education and has completed an MA in Islamic Studies via Middlesex University, with a dissertation comparing religious and scientific denialism. He is currently interested in researching religion-science interactions and productive philosophical interfaces in the history of this dialogue. He is also researching religious scriptural hermeneutics, with a particular focus on the Qur'an. He has studied critical rationalism with Ali Paya and Jeremy Shearmur. He has lived in London for almost 40 years.